

Science and Practice – a Dynamic Relationship

How is it possible for a branch of medicine such as homeopathy, orientated as it is towards the individual patient, to profit from science? Healing, or even the certainty of healing, can it exist? These are the central questions which this congress seeks to address. Well-known researchers from home and abroad will present their theses within a framework of lectures with simultaneous translation (German – English / English – German) and in consolidating seminars.
